STATUTES

458-C:7 Modification of Order

- I. (a) The obligor or obligee may apply to the court or, when the department of health and human services has issued a legal order of support pursuant to RSA 161-C, to the department, whichever issued the existing order, for modification of such order 3 years after the entry of the last order for support, without the need to show a substantial change of circumstances. This section shall not prohibit the obligor or obligee from applying at any time for a modification based on substantial change of circumstances.
- (b) Not less than once every 3 years the department shall provide notice to the parties subject to a child support order payable through the department informing them of their right to request a review, and, if appropriate, the right to apply for adjustment of the child support order. The notice provision may be included as part of the initial support order or any subsequent orders.
- (c) Not less than once every 3 years the department shall review all child support orders in which there is an assignment to the department pursuant to Title IV-A of the Social Security Act and, if appropriate, apply for adjustment of the child support order in accordance with the child support guidelines.
- II. Any child support modification shall not be effective prior to the date that notice of the petition for modification has been given to the respondent. "Notice" means:
  - (a) Service as specified in civil actions; or
- (b) Acceptance of a copy of the petition, as long as the petition is filed no later than 30 days following said acceptance, and as long as the petitioner provides proof of acceptance by a certified mail receipt. Nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed to affect service as required by law.
- III. Whenever the court, pursuant to this chapter, modifies a support order which results in an overpayment of support, the court shall order, absent a showing of undue hardship, the obligee to directly reimburse the obligor for such overpayment of support or order an adjustment to the modified support order until reimbursement of the overpayment has been satisfied. Any reimbursement ordered shall be only for an overpayment that occurs after the date that notice of the petition for modification of support order was given to the respondent. The court shall enter an order for reimbursement as a provision of the modified order, which order for reimbursement shall take effect 30 days after issuance, unless either the obligor or obligee requests, within such 30-day period, a separate hearing to determine the amount and frequency of reimbursement.

458-C:19 (I), (II) and (III) Alimony (effective until January 1, 2019)

- I. Upon motion of either party for alimony payments, the court shall make orders for the payment of alimony to the party in need of alimony, either temporary or permanent, for a definite or indefinite period of time, if the motion for alimony payments is made within 5 years of the decree of nullity or divorce and the court finds that:
- (a) The party in need lacks sufficient income, property, or both, including property apportioned in accordance with RSA 458:16-a, to provide for such party's reasonable needs, taking into account the style of living to which the parties have become accustomed during the marriage; and
- (b) The party from whom alimony is sought is able to meet reasonable needs while meeting those of the party seeking alimony, taking into account the style of living to which the parties have become accustomed during the marriage; and
- (c) The party in need is unable to be self-supporting through appropriate employment at a standard of living that meets reasonable needs or is allocated parental rights and responsibilities under RSA 461-A for a child of the parties whose condition or circumstances make it appropriate that the parent to not seek employment outside the home.
- II. Upon motion of either party, the court may make orders for the payment of an alimony allowance when such orders would be just and equitable.
- III. Upon a decree of nullity or divorce, or upon renewal, modification, or extension of a prior order for alimony, the court may order alimony to be paid for such length of time as the parties may agree or the court orders.

RSA 458:16-a Property Settlement

- I. Property shall include all tangible and intangible property and assets, real or personal, belonging to either or both parties, whether title to the property is held in the name of either or both parties. Intangible property includes, but is not limited to, employment benefits, vested and non-vested pension or other retirement benefits, or savings plans. To the extent permitted by federal law, property shall include military retirement and veterans' disability benefits.
- II. When a dissolution of a marriage is decreed, the court may order an equitable division of property between the parties. The court shall presume that an equal division is an equitable distribution of property, unless the court establishes a trust fund under RSA 458:20 or unless the court decides that an equal division would not be appropriate or equitable after considering one or more of the following factors:
- (a) The duration of the marriage.
- (b) The age, health, social or economic status, occupation, vocational skills, employability, separate property, amount and sources of income, needs and liabilities of each party.
- (c) The opportunity of each party for future acquisition of capital assets and income.
- (d) The ability of the custodial parent, if any, to engage in gainful employment without substantially interfering with the interests of any minor children in the custody of said party.
- (e) The need of the custodial parent, if any, to occupy or own the marital residence and to use or own its household effects.

- (f) The actions of either party during the marriage which contributed to the growth or diminution in value of property owned by either or both of the parties.
- (g) Significant disparity between the parties in relation to contributions to the marriage, including contributions to the care and education of the children and the care and management of the home.
- (h) Any direct or indirect contribution made by one party to help educate or develop the career or employability of the other party and any interruption of either party's educational or personal career opportunities for the benefit of the other's career or for the benefit of the parties' marriage or children.
- (i) The expectation of pension or retirement rights acquired prior to or during the marriage.
- (j) The tax consequences for each party.
- (k) The value of property that is allocated by a valid prenuptial contract made in good faith by the parties.
- (1) The fault of either party as specified in RSA 458:7 if said fault caused the breakdown of the marriage and:
- (1) Caused substantial physical or mental pain and suffering; or
- (2) Resulted in substantial economic loss to the marital estate or the injured party.
- (m) The value of any property acquired prior to the marriage and property acquired in exchange for property acquired prior to the marriage.
- (n) The value of any property acquired by gift, devise, or descent.
- (o) Any other factor that the court deems relevant.
- II-a. Tangible property shall include animals. In such cases, the property settlement shall address the care and ownership of the parties' animals, taking into consideration the animals' wellbeing.
- III. If either or both parties retain an ownership interest in an education savings account held on behalf of a child of the marriage, including a qualified tuition program under 26 U.S.C. Section 529, the court may, in its discretion, preserve the account for its original purpose or may treat the account as property of the marriage subject to equitable division under this section.
- IV. The court shall specify written reasons for the division of property which it orders.

COURT RULES

Family Division Rule 2.29 Effective Dates

- A. Uncontested Matters. Decrees in uncontested cases where the parties have filed a permanent agreement shall become effective on the date signed by the judge, or countersigned by a judge pursuant to RSA 490-D:9, unless otherwise specified by the Court.
- B. Contested and Defaulted Matters. In contested cases or upon the default of either party, the following rules apply.
- 1. The following orders are effective upon the issuance of the clerk's notice of decision, unless the court specifies, either orally or in writing, another effective date:

- a. Temporary orders;
- b. Parenting plans;
- c. Uniform support orders
- d. Orders for alimony or payments of on-going expenses; and
- e. Provisions concerning the welfare of a child or the safety of a party, at the discretion of the court.
- 2. All orders other than those described in subsection 1 are effective on the 31st day from the date of the clerk's notice of decision unless the order specifies another effective date, a party files a timely post-decision motion (see Supreme Court Rule 7(1)(c)), or a party files an appeal.
- 3. If any party files a timely post-decision motion, but no appeal is filed, all orders other than those described in subsection 1 are effective on the 31st day from the date of the clerk's notice of decision on the motion or another date at the discretion of the court.
- 4. If any party files an appeal, all orders described in subsection 1 shall continue in effect until the supreme court mandate or the conclusion of such further proceedings as the supreme court may order, whichever is last. During this period, no orders as to marital status or parentage or as to property division shall take effect.
- 5. Nothing in this Rule modifies Family Division Rule 1.31 or Supreme Court Rule 7 as to the time for filing an appeal.
- C. Inactive Cases. All domestic relations cases which have been placed on hold by request of the parties shall be dismissed after six (6) months unless there is a request by a party to reactivate the case, or a request for a further extension for good cause.

ARGUMENT

I. The trial court erred as a matter of law by ordering that Mr. Bart's child support obligation shall be automatically modified on an annual basis, retroactive to the beginning of the prior calendar year, without any judicial determination that the new amount of child support is just and appropriate.

In her brief, Ms. Sanborn argues that the trial court properly exercised its discretion (a) in requiring Mr. Bart to update his income disclosure annually, and (b) by imposing an automatic recalculation of child support each year based on the updated figures. Ms. Sanborn argues that this was a proper discretionary decision supported by the record and the "equities of the case."

A. Annual Disclosure of Income

Ms. Sanborn devotes a portion of her brief to arguing that the annual exchange of tax returns as ordered by the trial court is allowed under New Hampshire law. This is a strawman argument as Mr. Bart has not appealed this portion of the Final Decree. Mr. Bart does not object to the annual exchange of tax returns. Instead, he objects to the automatic recalculation of his child support obligation each year, retroactively, and without a hearing or any other form of judicial review to determine whether the new amount is just and appropriate. See RSA 458-C:7.

B. Automatic Recalculation of Child Support

Ms. Sanborn argues that "the Court has long blessed automatic escalation or recalculation clauses as a way to reduce the need of parties to go to court...," yet she can only cite one case where such a clause was so blessed - Heinze v. Heinze, 122 N.H. 358 (1982). Her reliance on Heinze, however, is misplaced. Heinze was decided in 1982 before passage of the existing child support statute, including RSA 458-C:7 (circa 1991) which established the current statutory scheme for the modification of child support orders, including the prohibition on orders retroactive to a date prior to notice of a petition for modification based on either (a) a substantial change in circumstance or (b) the passage of three years since the prior child support order. In In re: Donovan, 152, N.H. 55 (2005), which Ms. Sanborn also cites, this Court reversed a trial court's order that imposed an escalation clause on a child support obligor.

Lacking any substantive legal argument, Ms. Sanborn resorts to ad hominem attacks on Mr. Bart and argues that the child support order "was a response to Mr. Bart's own conduct in this litigation" and is justified due to Mr. Bart's "credibility deficiencies and his failures to disclose income during the litigation process." However, there is nothing in the Final Decree which suggests that the trial court believed that the amount of present income attributed to Mr. Bart for child support purposes ($9,718 per month) was inaccurate, nor did the trial court articulate the claims now made by Ms. Sanborn as the basis for its order.

Although the trial court found that certain income was not identified until the filing of the petition for divorce (Final Decree, App. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 31), this income involved the parties' 2014, 2015 and 2016 tax returns that were jointly filed when the parties were still together. (Append. to Petitioner's Brief at p. 9; Request #118). The trial court found that the amended returns filed by Mr. Bart for each of these years corrected this issue. (Final Decree, App. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 37). No evidence was presented at the final hearing which suggests that this underreporting of income, of which Ms. Sanborn was aware (Tr. at 861), had any impact on the 2018 tax returns used by the trial court in part to calculate Mr. Bart's child support obligation.

Ms. Sanborn's allegation that Mr. Bart failed to disclose his income during the litigation process in particularly egregious and unsupported by the record. In fact, the trial court specifically rejected these claims. In response to her request for attorney's fees, the trial court found that, "[Ms. Sanborn] has not demonstrated that [Mr. Bart's] conduct with regard to discovery was conducted in bad faith...." (Final Decree, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 41). The trial court further stated that Ms. Bart and his counsel had provided complete copies of his bank statements and tax returns and that neither Ms. Sanborn nor her counsel were able to identify "any document that [Mr. Bart] refused to provide in discovery." Id. Mr. Bart testified about the voluminous discovery, including Quickbooks data, provided to Ms. Sanborn's counsel dating back six years and that nothing requested was denied. (Tr. at 947-956). Thus, while the trial court found that Mr. Bart's income was difficult for everyone involved to ascertain (Final Decree, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 41), it did not find that this was the fault of Mr. Bart. (Id.).

Rather than address the statutory arguments made in Mr. Bart's brief, Ms. Sanborn alleges that the trial court is a court of equity and has the inherent authority to fashion remedies that circumvent the statutory requirements set forth in the child support statute. However, such an argument was rejected by this Court in In re Albert, 155 N.H. 259 (2007). In Albert, this Court reversed the trial court's decision to calculate the father's gross income in a manner that was inconsistent with the statute notwithstanding any finding that the father was "not credible or forthright." Id. at 262. While the credibility and forthrightness of a party may be considered by a trial court when accepting evidence, these are not grounds for ignoring the plain meaning of the statute. Id. Thus, even if the trial court had expressed a lack of confidence in its finding of Mr. Bart's present income based upon an alleged lack of forthrightness (it did not), this would not be grounds for ignoring the statutory requirements set forth in RSA 458-C:7 for the review and modification of all child support orders.

Pursuant to RSA 458-C:7, if Ms. Sanborn receives Mr. Bart's tax returns in the future and believes that there has been a substantial change in circumstance such that a modification of child support is warranted, she will have the right to petition the court for relief retroactive to the date Mr. Bart receives notice of the petition for modification. She may also petition the court every three years as a matter of right. However, there is no legal or factual basis for the trial court's decision to adopt a process that avoids the requirements mandated by the legislature in RSA 458-C:7.

II. The trial court erred when it treated marital funds used by Mr. Bart to pay his legal fees as an advance on his share of the marital estate but failed to hold Ms. Sanborn to the same standard.

The trial court specifically found that the use of marital assets by one party during the divorce to pay their legal fees has the effect of requiring the other spouse to pay the other's attorney's fees and, if left uncorrected, would be contrary to New Hampshire law. (Final Decree, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 40). In re Hampers, 154 N.H. 275, 291 (2006). Neither party appealed this finding. There is, however, no plausible way to read the Final Decree and not conclude that this rule was not applied equally to both parties.

In her brief, Ms. Sanborn does not deny that she withdrew $53,259 from marital accounts during the divorce to pay her attorney's fees; however, she argues that the trial court's unequal treatment of these withdrawals was justified as part of the overall property division. However, nowhere in the Final Decree did the trial court articulate the reasons provided by Ms. Sanborn as a basis for its disparate treatment of these withdrawals. The trial court specifically found that a 55-45 division of marital assets was warranted in light of the fact that the business and the real property associated therewith were inherited or gifted from Mr. Bart's family (Final Decree, App. to Respondent's Answering Brief at pp. 35 and 40). The trial court then purported to divide the marital estate to the dollar based on these exact percentages. (Id. at p. 44-45). It is well settled that, regardless of its ultimate decision, the court must specify written findings and reasons for the division of property which it orders. Magrauth v. Magrauth, 136 N.H. 757, 763 (1993). Here, the trial court provided no written explanation for the inconsistency between its ruling that neither party could be obligated to pay towards the attorney's fees of the other, and its division of marital property which failed to account for Ms. Sanborn's use of the $53,259.

Ms. Sanborn's claim that the trial court's order is justified because Mr. Bart "dissipated" and "plundered" marital assets is patently false and was not found by the trial court to be true. (Append. to Petitioner's Brief at p. 11; Request #125 not granted). As Mr. Bart testified, the underreporting of income in the years 2014, 2015 and 2016 had no impact on the value of the marital estate as the sums in question were used to support the family. (Tr. at p. 940). No evidence was produced at trial by Ms. Sanborn which demonstrated that assets had been dissipated or had otherwise left the marital estate. If this had been a basis for the trial court's decision, the trial court could have said so in the Final Decree. It did not.

III. The trial court erred as a matter of law when it modified the Final Decree after this appeal had already been perfected to this Court.

Ms. Sanborn argues that Family Division Rule 2.29 (B)(1)(d) does not apply to her real estate taxes because they are not an on an "on-going expense." This argument defies logic. The plain meaning of the word expense is any "financial burden, or outlay: COST." Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary. Ms. Sanborn's real estate taxes, which must be paid twice per year, clearly meet this definition. Real estate taxes are also listed as a specific line item on the "expense" page of the financial affidavit that each party is required to sign under oath and submit to the court in any divorce proceeding. Ms. Sanborn could have addressed this issue in her motion to reconsider following the issuance of the Final Decree and before this Court had jurisdiction over the matter, and her brief provides no explanation for why she failed to do so.

Ms. Sanborn also argues that this order was necessary to maintain the status quo; however, the trial court did not offer this as the basis for its decision and this claim is contradicted by the record below. Ms. Sanborn, who was found to earn $5,155 per month, was also awarded child support and alimony of $1,342 and $1,000 respectively, bringing her total income from all sources to $7,497 per month. Implicit in the trial court's alimony award is a finding that this award would enable Ms. Sanborn to meet her reasonable needs, including the expenses associated with the home she was awarded.

IV. The trial court properly calculated Mr. Bart's present income for the purpose of calculating his child support obligation.

Trial courts are afforded broad discretion in fashioning divorce decrees, including matters of child support, property division and alimony, and this Court will not overturn such a decision absent an unsustainable exercise of discretion. In the Matter of Crowe & Crowe, 148 N.H. 218, 221 (2002). When reviewing a trial court's discretionary decision making, this Court need only review whether there is an objective basis sufficient to sustain the judgment of the trial court which shall not be disturbed if it could reasonably have been made. In re Kempton, 167 N.H. 785, 792 (2015).

Ms. Sanborn's appeals the trial court's finding that Mr. Bart's total present income for child support purposes is $9,718 per month. (Final Decree, App. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 32). The trial court's finding was consistent with Mr. Bart's financial affidavit which stated that his income from Granite State Candy Shoppe (GSCS) was $8,334 per month and that his rental income and business profits from a real estate holding company, CMJ Associates (CMJ), was $1,384.18 per month. (Append. to Petitioner's Brief at pp. 71-75). Although Mr. Bart had capital gains income in 2018 from the sale of stock in an investment account, the evidence at trial confirmed that this was a one-time event that Mr. Bart would not have going forward. Because the trial court's finding as to Mr. Bart's present income is supported by the record below and is consistent with New Hampshire law, it must be affirmed.

A. Income from GSCS

The trial court's finding that Mr. Bart's income from GSCS was $8,334 per month ($100,014 annually) is consistent with the amount reported on Mr. Bart's 2018 tax return. (Append. to Petitioner's Brief at p. 64). Ms. Sanborn does not appear to dispute this finding and, in fact, argues that the trial court correctly used this amount when calculating Mr. Bart's retroactive child support obligation under the temporary orders. (Final Decree, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at pp. 32-33; Petitioner's Brief at pp. 40-41).

B. Income from CMJ

With regard to CMJ, Ms. Sanborn argues that the trial court erred by not using the exact figure as reported on Mr. Bart's 2018 tax return and his K-1 ($36,070, or $3,005 per month). Ms. Sanborn's position, however, is inconsistent with New Hampshire law.

It is well settled that how federal income taxation statutes define "income" is of little relevance to how gross income is defined under the child support guidelines. In re Taylor, 153 N.H. 700, 704 (2006). This is so because "[t]he objectives of the child support guidelines . . . differ from the objectives of the federal income taxation statutes." Id. at 703-04. Thus, it is not incongruous for a trial court to hold that an item of taxable income does not qualify as gross income for child support purposes. In re Albert, 155 N.H. 259, 264 (2007). In order for income to be considered gross income under the child support guidelines, it must actually be available to the child support obligor to meet his or her obligation. Id.

Thus, in Albert, 155 N.H. 259, this Court reversed the trial court's decision to simply use the amount of passive income listed on a child support's obligor's K-1 when determining his income from a real estate holding company. This Court noted that the amount of passive income listed on the K-1 was not necessarily available for the payment of child support, and that real estate holding companies often must make significant principal payments that are not deductible on their tax returns. Id. at 264.

The undisputed evidence at trial was that CMJ is a real estate holding company that owns one building that is encumbered by two commercial mortgages with combined balances totaling approximately $147,448 (Final Decree, App. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 44; Append. to Petitioner's Brief at p. 74), and that the principal payments on these loans in 2018 totaled $37,972.84. (Tr. at p. 903). Although these principal payments are a required expenditure each month, they are not deductible by CMJ for tax purposes.

In 2018, CMJ also had a depreciation expense of $16,614 on its tax return. (Petitioner's Exhibit #35, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 72). However, unlike the payments of principal described above, depreciation is a non-cash expense that does not require an outlay of funds and, as a result, these funds are available to Mr. Bart to pay child support. Thus, the appropriate method is to add-back this depreciation expense when calculating gross income for child support purposes. In re: Maves & Moore, 166 N.H. 564, 569 (2014).

Here, the trial court correctly calculated Mr. Bart's income from CMJ by using the following calculation as set forth on Mr. Bart's financial affidavit (Append. to Petitioner' Brief at p. 75):

Net Operating Income Per Tax Return	$37,968.00
Plus Depreciation Expense	$16,614.00
Less Principal Payments on Debt	(37,972.84)
Service
Actual Cash Flow/Income (annualized)	$16,609.16
Actual Cash Flow/Income (monthly)	$1,384.18

$1,384.18 per month represents the actual amount of gross income available to Mr. Bart from CMJ each month to pay child support. The trial court's finding is both supported by the record below and consistent with New Hampshire law and, as such, must be affirmed.

Ms. Sanborn correctly points out in her brief that the trial court's treatment of this income is inconsistent in the Final Decree. When calculating Mr. Bart's income for the period from February of 2018 through December of 2018, the trial court simply used the income as reported on the 2018 K-1 (Final Decree, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 32). This was an error of law for the reasons discussed above that, due to the amounts involved, Mr. Bart chose not to appeal. However, this error favored Ms. Sanborn as it resulted in a higher amount of child support for the period in question.

C. Capital Gains Income

The trial court correctly concluded that it would be inappropriate to impute capital gains income to Mr. Bart when calculating his child support obligation going forward. The evidence presented at trial was that Mr. Bart had capital gains in 2018 in the amount of $21,679 as the result of stocks sold in the CMJ Fidelity account in March and April of that year. (Append. to Petitioner's Brief at p. 91). However, these gains and more were captured and included in the trial court's calculation of child support owed by Mr. Bart for the period from June of 2018 through June 2019 ($40,000 withdrawal from the CMJ Fidelity account prorated at $3,333.33 per month). (Final Decree, Add. to Petitioner's Answering Brief at p. 32). Withdrawals from this account totaling $65,000 were also calculated as an advance on Mr. Bart's share of the marital estate as part of the overall property division. (Final Decree, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 45). These two amounts, totaling $105,000, represent the approximate value of the Fidelity Investments account at the time of the divorce filing. (Add. to Respondent's Opening Brief at p. 74, Request #19).

At the time of trial, the Fidelity account had been reduced to a mere $1,116.68, which funds were being held in a money market account earning interest income of only 2.02%. (Petitioner's Exhibit #40, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 101). Thus, the trial court correctly concluded that the capital gains income earned in 2018 was a one-time event which had already been captured as part of its child support calculation for 2018 and the first half of 2019. (Final Decree, App. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 32). No evidence was presented at the final hearing from which the trial court could have concluded that Mr. Bart would have any capital gains income going forward. Thus, it would have been an error of law for the trial court to continue to attribute capital gains income to Mr. Bart for the purpose of determining his child support obligation.

V. The trial court properly exercised its discretion when dividing the marital estate.

Marital property is not to be divided by mechanical formula but in a manner deemed just based upon the evidence presented and the equities of the case. In the Matter of Geraghty & Geraghty, 169 N.H. 404, 417 (2016). Although under RSA 458:16-a, II an equal division of property is presumed to be equitable, the trial court may decide otherwise after considering one or more of the factors designated in the statute. The statutory factors that the court may consider, property acquired in exchange for property acquired prior to the marriage; and (b) the value of property acquired by gift, devise, or descent. RSA 458:16-a II (m) and (n). The court need not consider all of the enumerated factors or give them equal weight. Geraghty, 169 N.H. at 417.

Here, the record below supports the trial court's finding that the parties' interests in both GSCS and CMJ "have been in [Mr. Bart's] family for nearly 100 years" and were "inherited and/or gifted to [Mr. Bart]." (Final Decree, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 35)(Add. to Respondent's Opening Brief at pp. 76-77, Requests #34-53)(Tr. at pp. 806-823). The trial court also found that these business assets, after deducting for the mortgages on the property owned by CMJ, were worth $823,400, or approximately 46.85% of the entire marital estate (i.e. $823,400/$1,757,342). (Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at pp. 44-45). Having made these findings, the trial court properly exercised its discretion in awarding Mr. Bart 55% of the marital estate.

This Court has held that a trial court may award an unequal division of marital assets where significant assets, including business interests, were brought into the marriage, or either inherited or gifted from the family of one of the parties. McAlpin v. McAlpin, 129 N.H. 737 (1987); Grandmaison v. Grandmaison, 119 N.H. 268 (1979).

Ms. Sanborn does not deny that the interests in GSCS and CMJ were either gifted or inherited from Mr. Bart's family (Petitioner's Brief at pp. 45-46), but instead argues that other "factors the trial court is permitted to consider weighed in Ms. Sanborn's favor." However, as noted above, the trial court is not required to weigh all the statutory factors equally, if at all.

Geraghty, 169 N.H. at 417. Because the trial court's division of marital property is supported by the record below, it must be affirmed.

VI. The trial properly exercised its discretion when awarding Ms. Sanborn alimony of $1,000.00 month for 69 months.

Ms. Sanborn appeals the trial court's decision to award her alimony of $1,000 per month for 69 months. The trial court ruled, and the parties agreed, that the prior version of RSA 458:19 applies as this case was filed prior to January 1, 2019.

Pursuant to the statute, the trial court may award alimony, either temporary or permanent, for a definite or indefinite period of time, if it finds that: (1) the party in need lacks sufficient income, property, or both to provide for her reasonable needs, considering the style of living to which the parties have become accustomed during the marriage; (2) the payor is able to continue to meet his own reasonable needs, considering the style of living to which the parties have become accustomed during the marriage; and (3) the party in need cannot be self-supporting through appropriate employment at a standard of living that meets reasonable needs. RSA 458:19.

The trial court's award of alimony is supported by the evidence submitted at trial and, as such, represents a proper exercise of the trial court's discretion. As noted above, the trial court found that Mr. Bart had monthly gross income of $9,718 per month. The trial court also found that Ms. Sanborn, who is employed as a librarian at St. Paul's School, has monthly gross income of $5,115 from this employment. (Add. to Respondent's Opening Brief; Request #6). When Mr. Bart's child support and alimony obligations as set forth in the Final Decree are subtracted from his gross income and added to that of Ms. Sanborn, she is left with more income each month to meet her reasonable needs than is Mr. Bart. This calculation does not account for the fact that Mr. Bart must pay taxes on the child support and that he is in a higher tax bracket than is Ms. Sanborn.

	Mr. Bart	Ms. Sanborn
Monthly Income	$9,718.00	$5,155.00
Child Support	-$1,342.00	$1,342.00
Alimony	-$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Net Total	$7,376.00	$7,497.00

Moreover, it must be noted that, pursuant to the Parenting Plan issued at the time of the Final Decree, the trial court ruled that a shared parenting schedule was in the child's best interest. (Final Decree, Add. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 31). As a result, Ms. Sanborn has no greater need for income than does Mr. Bart. Mr. Bart must also provide a home and otherwise meet the child's financial needs 50% of the time. The trial court also found that both parties were frugal and had modest expenses. (Final Decree, App. to Respondent's Answering Brief at p. 34).

Ms. Sanborn also argues that the Court should have awarded her alimony for 72 months, not 69 months. This argument, however, ignores the fact that Ms. Sanborn, who was age 41 at the time of the final hearing, received temporary alimony at a higher amount ($1,500 per month) from February of 2018 until the issuance of the Final Decree. Under the terms of the Final Decree, Mr. Bart's total alimony obligation will end up running more than seven years from February of 2018 until August 1, 2025. This duration is quite generous to Ms. Sanborn in light of the duration of the marriage (less than 13 years as of the date of filing) and the rehabilitative purpose of alimony under New Hampshire law. In re Nassar, 156 N.H. 769 (2008).

CONCLUSION

For the forgoing reasons, Mr. Bart respectfully requests (1) that the provisions in the Final Decree that require the automatic recalculation of child support retroactively each year be vacated; (2) that this matter be remanded back to the trial court to correct the division of marital assets to account for the $53,259 used by Ms. Sanborn for her legal fees; and (3) that the trial court's Order of May 18, 2020 be vacated. Mr. Bart also requests that the Court deny Ms. Sanborn's appeal and affirm the issues raised by her in her brief.

General History

Mother first met Father in 1996, when she was in high school. Father's family owned Granite State Candy Shoppe ("GSCS"). Mother interviewed with and was hired by Father for employment in the store. Mother was eighteen and Father was twenty seven when they began dating. The parties maintained a relationship throughout Mother's time in college.

GSCS is a family owned business that was established in 1927 by Father's grandfather. Eventually, Father's father and uncle took over the operation. GSCS sells chocolates, candies, roasted nuts and ice cream. GSCS sells products it makes onsite and products that it purchases and repackages. There are two store locations. The main store is located in a building that was and is still owned by the Bart family. The second store is in Manchester.

Mother has been employed throughout the marriage as a librarian at St. Paul's School in Concord. Initially she was a twelve month employee but she now works ten months of the year, allowing her to be home for July and August. Father operates GSCS and oversees rental properties. He testified that at some point he has done every job associated with the business from waiting on customers to fixing broken equipment and taking out the trash.

Mother represented that before the couple separated, she was responsible for the majority of their son's care. She did all of the transportation, coordinated playdates and arranged extracurricular activities.

Father disagreed with Mother's representation and testified that he also transported Walden to and from school. By way of example, he explained that he took care of Walden exclusively on Wednesday nights when Mother was working. He stated that on those nights he would pick Walden up from daycare, feed him, give him a bath and make sure that he brushed his teeth.

Father also challenged Mother's claim that he was not an involved parent. He represented that he and Walden enjoy hiking and biking together.

Due to the nature of Father's business, he often works long hours. Mother testified that during the marriage he regularly worked 12-14 hour days, six or seven days/week. She stated that his hours were even longer during the holidays. However, before the divorce was filed, Father began to cut back on his work schedule. He stopped working on Saturdays and began taking Walden to activities and attending medical appointments.

Although Mother appreciates Father's new involvement in Walden's life, she is concerned about the money that he is spending on their son. Financially, Mother is unable to compete with Father's

2 In the Matter of: Lura Sanbom, Petitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409 outings and adventures. She testified that this financial imbalance creates confusion for Walden and allows Father to be the "fun" parent.

Mother acknowledged that Walden loves Father. Father stated that Mother is a wonderful mother and he recognizes how important it is for Walden to have a relationship with both parents.

The parties approach parenting differently and each takes issue with the actions and decisions of the other.

Mother is concerned with Walden's care when he is with Father. Mother described an occasion when Father brought Walden to school on his motorcycle. Mother disapproved. She also stated that Father brews his own beer and one day, after Father's parenting time, Walden came home from school with an empty beer bottle. Mother did not feel it was appropriate for Walden to have a beer bottle in school. Additionally, she is worried because Walden and Father have discussed Walden riding his bike to school next year; Mother believes the road is too busy.

Father denied that his actions and decisions have put Walden in harm's way.

Father disputed Mother's concerns regarding the beer bottle that Walden brought home from school. Father explained that he brews his own beer and has special labels that he applies to the bottles. On one occasion, Walden was assisting him with filling the bottles and applying the labels. Walden requested a souvenir and Father sent him home with an empty bottle. He was instructed to keep it in his bag and not remove it at school. Father represented that he was not contacted by the school and there were no issues with Walden having the bottle.

Father admitted that he took Walden to school on the back of his motorcycle. Walden was appropriately dressed in a full helmet and boots. Father explained that it was the last day of school and Walden had requested this mode of transportation. Father reported that he lives about a mile from the school and Mother was aware that occasionally he would ride with Walden on the back of the motorcycle. They had been taking short trips such as this, since before the divorce was filed.

Neither party believes that the other parent is effectively co-parenting. Mother feels that Father makes decisions without discussion. This was highlighted to her by the events surrounding Walden's summer plans. Mother indicated that Walden has an Individualized Education Program ("IEP"). Although he is strong in reading, Walden struggles with math. His motivation and focus also need support. In March of 2019, the education team contacted Mother and told her that Walden qualified for the Extended School Year Program ("ESY"). Mother believed that it was in Walden's best interest to attend and she expressed this position to Father in an email. Approximately ten days later, Father emailed Mother and informed her that he had contacted the school and signed documents saying that Walden would not be attending ESY. Instead, he had arranged for a tutor. Mother acknowledged that Father had raised the issue of hiring a tutor at an earlier IEP meeting. However, she believed that Father had made a decision regarding Walden's education, without first consulting her. Further, Mother was under the impression that tutoring would occur at Father's home and per the Temporary Orders, the parties were prohibited from entering each other's home. Thus, she believed the tutoring was designed to restrict her involvement in Walden's education.

3 In the Matter of: Lura Sanborn, Pelitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-0M-00409

Father represented that the parties do not sit down to discuss their conflicts. Instead, they communicate by text message. Recognizing that Walden does not enjoy school, Father suggested that a tutor might be more effective. He also questioned the need for summer school because he and Walden had been working together to improve Walden's math skills. Father indicated that he reached out to Mother in March, to begin a dialogue about the summer plans. Mother referred him to her lawyer (Ex W).

Ultimately, the parties participated in mediation and reached an agreement on Walden's summer schedule. Mother understood the agreement to be that their son would attend summer school for a minimum of 1.5 hours/day. They also agreed to have Walden attend soccer camp. Yet, after signing the agreement, Father contacted Mother and expressed an interest in registering Walden for mountain bike camp. Father's actions made Mother feel like she was being ignored. In her mind, Father had taken control of the whole summer.

To that end, Mother filed a Motion for Contempt. She represented that the parties had attended mediation and agreed that Walden would attend Summer School and play soccer. Mother was concerned because she had already coordinated soccer camp with ESY and Father was discussing an alternate activity with Walden. She felt that the conversation should have remained between the parents rather than discussed with their son.

Mother acknowledged that Father requested to meet with her to discuss Walden's schedule. However, she chose not to meet with Father because he has a history of being dishonest.

Father represented that he offered the mountain bike camp, despite the mediated agreement, because he did not think that the soccer camp plans had been confirmed. He also knew that Walden had not played organized soccer in years and he enjoyed mountain biking. Father believes that Walden should be included in the conversation concerning his activities.

Rulings

After reviewing the pleadings, exhibits and credible evidence submitted at the hearing, including but not limited to the demeanor of the parties, the Court rules as follows:

Pursuant to RSA 458:7-a, the Court grants Final Decree of Divorce on the ground of irreconcilable differences which have caused the irremediable breakdown of the marriage.

Parenting

Mother believes that the routine schedule outlined in the Temporary Parenting Plan should remain in place. Mother argues that this schedule works well for Walden and she continues to have concerns about his care when he is with Father.

Father believes that a more balanced parenting schedule is appropriate. This would allow for fewer transitions for Walden. Father also believes that if the other parent is tied up during his/her parenting time, that that time with Walden should be offered to the other parent. Mother has been unwilling to offer Father parenting time with Walden when she has had to work. Father described one instance in which she left Walden at home, alone, rather than offer that time to Father.

> In the Matter of: Lura Sanborn, Petitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409

RSA 461-A:2, I, states that "because children do best when both parents have a stable and meaningful involvement in their lives, it is the policy of this state...to support frequent and continuing contact between each child and both parents" and to "encourage parents to share in the rights and responsibilities of raising their children after the parents have separated or divorced" unless it is clearly shown to be detrimental.

Having considered the evidence, the Court finds that both parents will be able to provide Walden with love and affection and that both are able to assure that he receives adequate food, clothing, shelter, medical care, and a safe environment. Therefore, a shared parenting schedule is appropriate and in Walden's best interest. See Parenting Plan

Child Support

Mother is seeking child support, as well as arrearage. She argued that there is retroactive child support owed because the Court incorrectly attributed health insurance to Father in its calculations for Temporary Support. However, prior to the Final Hearing, no motion was filed with the Court to correct this oversight.

While the Court finds that child support is appropriate, the Court declines to recalculate child support with Lura receiving the credit for the medical support. Although he Court finds that this was a scrivener's error in the child support calculation, this error was not raised until the Final Hearing and the Court does not find that there was proper notice.

Throughout the marriage, the parties maintained separate checking/savings accounts. Each was responsible for certain marital and/or family expenses. Mother claims that she was primarily responsible for costs associated with Walden. She represented that following Walden's birth, a marriage counselor encouraged Father to contribute financially to Walden's care. It was only then that Father began giving Mother money; he would leave $5000 cash in a zipped bag on her bureau. She used this money to pay for groceries and certain extra-curricular activities. Mother denied ever asking Father about the source of the cash. She believed that he was paid in December and assumed that it was coming from his salary. Mother claimed that she was not aware that the money Father left for her, was income that he neglected to report for tax purposes.

Father disputed this assertion and argued that he and Mother shared expenses. He also denied that she was unaware of the underreported income, stating that he specifically told Mother that the money he gave her had not been included in the couple's reported income from the business and that she should not deposit it into an account.

Following the filing of the divorce petition, Father stopped providing Mother with these funds.

The Court finds that Father has not always been forthright with disclosing his finances, it was not until the filing of the divorce that his underreported income was identified.

Therefore, the Court adds the following to the Uniform Support Order:

5 In the Matter of: Lura Sanborn, Petitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409 Should Jeffrey receive additional income (to include without limitation, guaranteed payments, wages, distributions, dividends or other compensation) such that his income in any tax year exceeds $9718/month or $116,616/year, he shall pay additional child support on such additional income. Any additional income shall be run through the New Hampshire Child Support Guidelines Worksheet. The additional income shall be calculated no later than April 15 and paid within ten days of the recaiculation. For so long as Jeffrey has an obligation to pay child support, the parties shall annually exchange all state and federal tax returns (by April 15 of each year) and in addition, Jeffrey shall provide all partnership returns within 30 days of their filling as well as draw/distribution records for CMJ and GSCS, as well as all schedules, 1099, and k-1s.

Additionally, the Court recalculates child support for the period of the Temporary Uniform Support Order to the date of the Final Temporary Uniform Support Order, using Jeffrey's monthly income, as determined by the Court for that period of time.

February 2018 through May 2018: $8334.50 income from financial affidavit + $3103.91 income from CMJ from Exhibit 35, 2018 k-1 = $11,438.41 = monthly income from February to May 2018 Running guidelines, child support should have been $ 1557 Difference from what he was paying = $328 x 4 = $1312

June 2018 through December 2018:

$8334.50 income from financial affidavit

- + $3103.91 income from CMJ from Exhibit 35, 2018 k-1
- + $3333.33/month income from CMJ for 2018 ($40,000 withdrawn from CMJ Associates account in June 2018, distributed over twelve month period)

$14,771.74 = monthly income from June 2018-December 2018

Running guidelines, child support should have been $ 1984

Difference from child support being paid = $755 x 7 months = $5285

January 2019 through June 2019:

$8334.50 income from financial affidavit

+ $3333.33/month income from CMJ for 2018_($40,000 withdrawn from CMJ Associates account in June 2018, distributed over twelve month period)

$11,667.83 for January 2019 - June 2019

Running guidelines, child support should have been $1587

Difference from what he was paying = $358 x 6 months = $2148

Running guidelines based on Father's August 2, 2019 Financial Affidavit and Mother's July 30, 2019 Financial Affidavit = $1342 for July until November, 2019.

Difference from what he was paying =  $113 \times 5 = $565$

6 In the Matter of: Lura Sanborn, Petitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409

Adding the differences for the period of time in which the Temporary Order was in place, the Court finds that Father underpaid child support and there is an arrearage in the amount of $9310 ($1312 + $5285 + $2148 + $565). Within 30 days of the Notice of this Decision, Father shall pay Mother $9310.

The Court finds that this recalculation and arrearage Order is appropriate as Father's actual Income was unknown until the Final Hearing. (See Paragraph 2 of Temporary Decree).

During the Hearing, Mother claimed that Father had failed to reimburse her for his portion of Walden's uninsured medical expenses. Father argued that Mother paid for these expenses through their HSA fund and that his portion should likewise come from the HSA.

Both parties acknowledged that there is inconsistency between the language in the Temporary Decree and the Temporary Uniform Support Order. The Temporary Decree states that "both parties may access the HSA account to pay their own reasonable and necessary medical expenses and those of Walden provided they account to the other for all withdrawals and payments within 14 days of such withdrawals..." The Temporary Uniform Support Order states that the Obligor/Father is responsible for 2/3 of uninsured medical expenses and the Obligee/Mother is responsible for 1/3 of uninsured medical expenses.

On August 8, 2018, Father filed a Motion to Enforce Temporary Orders and to Compel Accounting of HSA Funds (Docket No. 53). Mother objected. In an Order dated October 25, 2018, the Court noted that "counsel represented...that the pending motions had been resolved." Therefore, the Court declines to make any further Orders as it relates to past expenses and the use of the HSA. The Court finds that any requests for reimbursement or funds related to past uninsured medical expenses have been waived. Going forward, the Court maintains the division established in the Temporary Uniform Support Order and requires the Obligor/Father to pay 2/3 and Obligee/Mother to pay 1/3 of Walden's uninsured medical expenses. See Uniform Support Order

Alimony

The parties agreed that the law in effect at the time the lawsuit was filed would govern alimony, rather than the 2018 amendments to that law (effective for cases filed after 1/1/19). The Court finds that Mother lacks sufficient income, property, or both, to provide for her own reasonable needs, taking into account the marital lifestyle. See RSA 458:19, I(a). The Court does not find that Mother is underemployed. RSA 458:19, I(c). Additionally, the Court finds that Father is able to meet his own reasonable needs, taking into account the marital lifestyle and the extent to which the parties must both fairly adjust their standards of living based on the creation and maintenance of separate households. See RSA 458:19, I(b).

Pursuant to RSA 458:19, IV(b) (2018).

In determining the amount of alimony, the court shall consider the length of the marriage: the age, health, social or economic status, occupation, amount and sources of income, the property awarded under RSA 458:16-a, vocational skills, employability, estate, liabilities, and needs of each of the parties; the opportunity of each for future acquisition of capital assets and income . . . .

> In the Matter of: Lura Sandorn, Petitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409

(Emphases added.)

Again, the Court notes the challenges with establishing Father's income. As the primary owner of both GSCS and CMJ, Father has a much greater opportunity for future acquisition of capital assets and income than does Mother, a salaried employee. And because he is awarded a slightly larger share of the marital estate (see property distribution, below), "the property awarded under RSA 458:16-a" factor favors Mother's receipt of alimony to help meet her reasonable needs.

The Court recognizes that both parties are frugal in their spending and finds that the expenses listed in their Financial Affidavits to be modest.

After considering all of the above, the Court awards alimony. See Uniform Alimony Order.

Health Insurance Coverage

The continuation of health insurance benefits on behalf of Jeffrey shall be governed by RSA 415:18, VII-b, COBRA, or other applicable law. Each party shall be responsible for his/her own medical and dental insurance and for paying all of his/her own unreimbursed medical, dental, optical, and other expenses not otherwise covered by insurance.

Mother shall maintain health insurance for Walden.

Property Distribution

Having considered all of the facts and evidence the Court finds that the attached Final Decree of Divorce represents an equitable distribution of the parties' marital estate. See Final Divorce Decree.

RSA 458:16-a, Il grants the Court the authority to order an equitable division of property between the parties. The Court presumes that an equal division is an equitable distribution of property, unless it decides that an equal division would not be appropriate or equitable after considering a number of factors.

In 2016, the parties refinanced the marital home and applied money from Mother's savings, in order to pay for renovations to their house. The evidence shows that the couple spent over $85,000 on various projects.

The parties agree on the current value of the marital home. Mother is maintaining that residence, while Father resides in a nearby home, purchased by his mother and for which he is paying rent. Mother is seeking financial assistance for issues within the marital home. Mother had the home professionally inspected and certain areas of concern were identified. Mother asserts that the boiler needs to be replaced, the wood stove does not meet code and there is black mold in the attic. She is interested in converting the home to propane. There is also a fireplace in the home that she would like to replace. The tub is cracked and she has been instructed by a plumber to refrain from using it. Mother asserts that the Temporary Decree requires Father to pay for these extraordinary expenses.

B in the Matter of: Lura Sanborn, Petitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409 Father disagrees that the repairs identified by Mother qualify as extraordinary expenses. He argues that these conditions existed at the time of the appraisal. Consequently, no further compensation for repairs is warranted.

The Court declines to require Father to pay for repairs to the house. The Court finds that the house issues, that Mother wishes to repair, were present at the time of the appraisal. Therefore, they are including in the valuation of the marital home.

Mother is awarded the marital home and the Court assigns to the home the value, as agreed upon by the parties.

Father is the controlling member of two Limited Liability Corporations which own and operate Granite State Candy Shoppe ("GSCS") and the Concord property in which GSCS is located. Mother is a member of the LLC that owns GSCS, although the source of her ownership was not explained or provided. (The experts each worked around this omission by valuing the "maritai" 90% share, without dividing that share into 10% for Mother and 80% for Father.) The candy business and the property in which it is located have been in Father's family for nearly 100 years. The business and property were inherited and/or gifted to Father. Therefore, the Court finds that pursuant to RSA 458:16-a, II (n), an unequal distribution is appropriate.

Valuation of both businesses was contested. Mother introduced a valuation report and expert testimony from Anthony Albright, CPA-ABV<sup>1</sup>, who concluded that the value of the marital 90% share of GSCS was $584,100. Father introduced a valuation report and expert testimony from Richard Maloney, CPA-ABV, who concluded that the value of the same marital 90% share of GSCS was instead $152,000. Based on the calculations below, the court concludes that the value of the marital 90% share of GSCS is actually $342,009.

The experts agreed that they both valued GSCS as a going concern, and both valued it for its fair market value. They explained the three principal valuation methods: the income approach, the asset approach, and the market approach. Mr. Albright testified that a closely held business like GSCS would normally be valued using the income approach. However, he placed less emphasis on the income approach in reaching his final valuation because he was concerned about the unreported income that had caused revisions to the tax returns for GSCS for the years 2014, 2015, and 2016. Mr. Albright's final number, $584,100, was based only 20% upon his income approach method (the "capitalization of earnings" method). The other 80% of that number was based upon two different market approaches. The first was a "market data" method whereby Mr. Albright used a national database called DealStats to find comparable sales of confectionary and chocolate businesses of a roughly similar sales range, narrowing their results down to 5 companies sold within the last 20 years. Among these sales was a competitor of GSCS, a company based in Weirs Beach called Kellerhaus, which sold in 2004 for $775,000, or 1.12 times annual sales. From those 5 comparable sales, Mr. Albright derived a ratio of the Market Value of Invested Capital (MVIC - or the purchase price) to sales for the companies; the mean value of this ratio was 0.71. He applied this as a "P/R Ratio," short for "Price to Revenues Ratio," so he multiplied the value multiple (.709) by the selective revenue base of GSCS (derived from an average of its gross revenues over the years 2014 – 2018). After subtracting interest bearing debt – but before applying a marketability discount (or reducing to the 90% that is part of the marital estate) – Mr. Albright reached a value of $782,000 by applying the market approach. He weighted this result at 40%, so twice as heavily as his income approach. The second market approach was based upon a "company-specific valuation," specifically, the 2013 purchase by the company of Michael Bart's interest. From this purchase, Mr. Albright derived a "control premium," which he used to calculate the value of GSCS (before marketability discount and 90% ownership) at $975,000. He also weighted this result at 40%, so twice as heavily as his income approach. Weighting his income approach valuation of $541,000 at 20%; his "price/ revenues multiple" valuation of $782,000 at 40%; and his "Subject Company Price/ Revenues Multiple" of $975,000 at 40%, Mr. Albright found an indicated value for GSCS before marketability discount of $811,000. Applying a 20% discount for marketability brought him to $648,800, which he rounded to $649,000. The marital 90% interest in GSCS, then, is worth $584,100, in Mr. Albright's calculation.

Mr. Maloney also testified about his methodology for calculating the value of GSCS under the income approach. Although Mr. Maloney and Mr. Albright used different bases of income for GSCS, the capitalization rate they used - "that rate as an investor you expect to receive from your investment," according to Mr. Maloney - was very close. Significantly, Mr. Maloney used a weighted average when determining the net income of GSCS - 5x for 2018, 4x for 2017, 3x for 2016, 2x for 2015, and 1x for 2014. He explained that more recent years' income would generally more closely reflect income going into the future, which a prospective buyer would rely on, so that is how he conducted his analysis under the income approach. His ultimate conclusion of value under the income approach (before discounts) was $237,232. Mr. Maloney did not value GSCS under the market approach. He did value GSCS under the asset approach, which he explained "usually serves as the minimum value," and is helpful in cases where a company is not generating income and so its assets are sold off and that is how its buyer makes its money. His conclusion of the value of GSCS under the asset approach - which included no value for goodwill - was $199,517. He weighted the asset approach at 33% and the income approach at 67%, valuing the company at $224,661 before applying a 25% marketability discount (taking the value down to $168,496) and the 90% marital ownership, leading to his conclusion that the marital share of GSCS was worth $152,000.

Both experts were thoughtful and well-prepared. Both thoroughly explained the normalization adjustments they had conducted in preparing their valuations under the income approach. Common sense and the balance sheets themselves indicate that the value of GSCS is somewhere between the two experts' valuations. Both Mr. Maloney and Mr. Albright testified that they bring a sanity check, reality check, or common sense to their approaches. As a sanity check for the Court, the average of Mr. Albright's value and Mr. Maloney's value, $584,100 and $152,000, is $368,050. Mr. Maloney himself, when asked on cross-examination, could not say that he would advise Mr. Bart to sell his interest in GSCS for $152,000, even though that was Mr. Maloney's conclusion of the value of his interest.

The Court is not prepared or qualified to look at the GSCS balance sheets or tax returns and question the normalization adjustments that either Mr. Maloney or Mr. Albright conducted. In the end, the "nitty-gritty" of what the CPAs have done in their expert analyses are unassailable. However, each expert has some big-picture flaws, which either inflated the value of GSCS (in Mr. Albright's

10 In the Matter of; Lura Sanborn, Pelltloner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409 case) or lowered the value (in Mr. Maloney's case). The Court must address these big-picture issues in order to calculate the true value of GSCS as accurately as possible.

The first and most significant issue apparent in Mr. Albright's approach is the weight that he gave to the market approaches. The Court is not comfortable considering the "company-specific" purchase of Michael Bart's interest in GSCS (and CMJ) as an arms-length transaction from which a revenue multiple may be derived – let alone weighting that value twice as heavily as the income approach. This is a family transaction. Jeffrey Bart testified credibly that the buyout took place when Michael Bart was having a difficult time psychologically, and the buyout was structured in order to give Michael Bart a steady stream of income while removing him from a position where he could harm the family businesses. Perhaps, as Mr. Albright testified, the tax returns surrounding the transaction should have reflected something different if this purchase was at something other than market value. However, Jeffrey Bart testified that GSCS was not appraised prior to this buyout. Perhaps the family all accepted that the stream of income they were supplying to Michael Bart in exchange for his interest actually constituted fair value for the purposes of this sale. That does not mean, however, that it constitutes fair market value for the purposes of a business appraisal six years later in the context of a divorce. The Michael Bart transaction skewed Mr. Albright's numbers very high. The Court will not consider that transaction in calculating the actual fair market value of GSCS.

The reason that Mr. Albright gave for minimizing the weight of the income approach – the lack of certainty regarding the numbers reflected on the tax returns and balance sheets – is a legitimate one, as far as it goes. But both Mr. Albright and Mr. Maloney had access to the amended tax returns for 2014, 2015, and 2016. Those amended returns corrected the underreporting issue and, as far as anyone can tell, accurately reflected the income of GSCS for those years. And, on further investigation, Mr. Albright's quibbles with the condensed version of Quickbooks data that he received did not appear to reflect any nefarious scheme, but rather the fact that he had to work with one full set of data prior to April 2018, and another full set of data from April 2018 forward to the December 2018 appraisal date, and had to reconcile these data sets in a painstaking way.

Mr. Albright is correct that the tax returns from 2017 and 2018 were not amended, and we do not know whether the underreporting that had affected 2014, 2015, and 2016 was also present in 2017 and 2018. The income numbers for 2017 and 2018 were certainly notably lower than in the years where the tax returns had been amended. But that is not a reason to discount the approach that he testified was the approach most relevant to valuing a closely-held business. He testified that he conducts a straight average of revenues, rather than a weighted average like Mr. Maloney does, in order to smooth out any fluctuations over the course of years. Using the straight across average, where 3 of the 5 years had already been corrected and were therefore reliable evidence, Mr. Albright's valuation under the market approach was $541,000 before discounts. That number should have been given more weight than the 20% Mr. Albright gave it.

Mr. Maloney's numbers, however, were skewed by the weighted average. Although a weighted average may normally be appropriate, so that the most recent years' income is given more weight in estimating future income, in this particular case, the 2017 and 2018 numbers were significantly lower than the numbers from the amended tax years of 2014, 2015, and 2016. Without getting into Mr. Maloney's (supported) normalization adjustments, his normalized net income numbers for the years 2014 through 2018 were as follows:

In the Matter of:
Lura Sanborn, Petitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent
Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018
RM normalized net income	$103,410	$52,637	$64,513	$19,810	$7,615

A straight average of those numbers yields $49,597, rather than the $34,636 Mr. Maloney calculated when weighting the most recent years most heavily. But Mr. Albright correctly flagged concerns about underreporting in the not-amended years, 2017 and 2018. Therefore, a more accurate approach, using Mr. Maloney's reasoning favoring more heavily weighting the reliable predictors, is to double-weight the three years for which the parties have amended tax returns, and single-weight the years for which they have not. Each of the years is counted. But those that are reliable get a bit more weight. Applying this weight structure to Mr. Maloney's normalized net income numbers yields:

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018
RM normalized net income	$103,410	$ 52,637	$64,513	$19,810	$7,615	!!
Weight	2	2	· 2	1	1
Total	206,820	105,274	129,026	19,810	7,615

So the average, weighting the more reliable years slightly more, is $58,568.13.

To turn this normalized net income into a valuation of GSCS, Mr. Maloney divides normalized net income by the weighted average cost of capital. Mr. Maloney testified persuasively that the "50% debt" that GSCS "owes," which is actually owed to Jeffrey Bart himself, based upon the Michael Bart buyout and Michael Bart's early death, is more equity than it is debt, and therefore should not figure into the weighted cost of capital. He therefore suggested that a buyer would use 75% equity and 25% debt, rather than the 50-50 split that Mr. Albright suggested (based upon his interpretation of the debt to Mr. Bart as an actual debt, rather than equity). Because the Court agrees with Mr. Maloney that the "debt" to Mr. Bart is properly considered equity, Mr. Maloney's 75% equity — 25% debt division appears sensible. Using this split, Mr. Maloney calculated 14.6% as the weighted average cost of capital (including using the capitalization rate that he and Mr. Albright very nearly agreed upon). Dividing $58,568.13 by 14.6%, the value of GSCS using the revised normalized net income and retaining Mr. Maloney's WACC is $401,151.58.

As noted above, both Mr. Maloney and Mr. Albright argued persuasively for their normalization adjustments, and both of their income methods deserve consideration in the ultimate valuation of GSCS. And, although due much less weight, Mr. Albright's market valuation method and Mr. Maloney's asset valuation method also enter into the calculation. The experts used the varying approaches – each given the weight they deserved – to verify and support the calculations they had done in the primary approach. Therefore, it is appropriate to weigh the Court-revised Maloney income method valuation of $401,151.58 at 40%, and the Albright income method of $541,000 at 40%, the Maloney asset method valuation of $199,517 at 10%, and the Albright price-revenues multiple method (from DealStats, not the company-specific Michael Bart purchase) of $782,000 at 10%. Averaging these according to their weights yields a pre-discount value for GSCS of $475,012 (rounded to the nearest dollar).

12 In the Matter of: Lura Sanborn, Petitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409 Next, the Court must decide whether Mr. Albright's 20% marketability discount or Mr. Maloney's 25% marketability discount is the more appropriate discount in this case. Mr. Albright's Appendix A to his report details studies and cases leading to his conclusion that a 20% discount is appropriate. He acknowledges "that a marketability discount in the range of 35%-40% is near the mean. These studies, however, are all based on non-control interests which implies lack of marketability discounts may be partially blended." Mr. Maloney agreed that no tack of control discount should be applied (although he did suggest that 25% discount for marketability would be more appropriate). Finding Mr. Albright's separation of the marketability discount and lack of control discount to be appropriate, the Court adopts Mr. Albright's 20% marketability discount.

Applying the 20% marketability discount to the $475,012 valuation of GSCS yields a value of $380,010. The 90% marital share of that value is $342,009. Therefore, the Court concludes that the value of the marital share of GSCS is $342,009.

The second LLC, CMJ Associates, LLC (CMJ), is the entity that owns the real estate containing GSCS and several residential apartments. The evidence of valuation presented was in the form of appraisal of the real estate, rather than CMJ as an entity. Mother presented a real estate appraisal report and expert testimony of Marsha M. Campaniello, who concluded that the fair market value of a fee simple interest in the building at 9-17 Warren Street in Concord (where GSCS has been based since it opened) is $860,000. Father presented a summary appraisal report of real estate and the expert testimony of Louis Manias, who concluded that the building's leased fee market value is $650,000. Because Mr. Manias's testimony compellingly explained his valuation, the Court agrees that the building's fair market value is $650,000. The value of CMJ, then, is $650,000, adjusted as needed for debts, plus the assets of the two CMJ bank accounts.

By way of brief explanation, Mr. Manias's testimony was so compelling for two main reasons: (1) his extensive knowledge of Concord real estate, and focus upon finding comparable sales in Concord; and (2) his valuation of the building on a square-footage basis, as opposed to a per unit basis, given its status as a mixed-use building as opposed to residential. Ms. Campaniello's approaches, using comparable sales from other municipalities south of Concord, and valuing the building on a per-apartment basis, were less persuasive. The market for buildings in Derry and in Manchester is different from the market in Concord, as Mr. Manias pointed out. Ms. Campaniello compared the rents (on a per-apartment basis) to other rents charged in Concord, but, as Mr. Manias pointed out, the other apartments were not really analogous. The other buildings in downtown Concord that Ms. Campaniello used as a basis for determining appropriate rent are newer and have more amenities. The apartments in CMJ's building are in what Mr. Manias described as "average" condition, in a building that is not handicapped-accessible, and whose parking spaces (a valuable amenity) are not on-site, but in a parking garage approximately a block away, around the corner and across North State Street. The apartments also do not have air conditioning or dishwashers; only one has a washer/dryer hookup. Mr. Manias and Mr. Bart also both testified to the significant deferred maintenance that the building would require, including a new roof ($50,000), remediation of extensive pigeon waste in the attic ($36,000) and potential remediation of lead paint around the windows ($40,000). Ms. Campaniello testified that she had been informed about additional elements of deferred maintenance, such as interconnecting the individual apartments' smoke detectors

($50,000) and installing a sprinkler system ($100,000).<sup>2</sup> On cross-examination, Mr. Manias was confronted with a 2013 appraisal done by the same company as he works for, Capital Appraisal Associates, although by a different appraiser, which found the value of the building as of 4/1/12 to be $780,000. Mr. Manias agreed that the market has remained relatively stable. On re-cross, he explained that, although he described the apartments as being in "average" condition in his summary report, the photographs included with the summary report show that they are dated and some are in below-average condition. Although he did not explicitly connect the deferred maintenance issues with the reduction in value between 2012 and 12/31/2018, his testimony and his report as a whole allowed the inference that the deferral of these necessary maintenance items could reasonably explain the decline in value.

The value of CMJ as an entity is not limited to the value of its real estate; the value of any other CMJ assets must be included. At the time that this divorce was filed, CMJ had two reasonably well-funded bank accounts. Now, the Merrimack County Savings Bank CMJ account (#5704) has a balance of $3,060,3 of which 95% belongs to Jeffrey Bart. The CMJ Fidelity account (#0391), also known as the CMJ investment account, has a balance of $1,116, of which 95% belongs to Jeffrey Bart. Mr. Bart testified that one large deduction (approximately $50,000) from the CMJ investment account was used to pay the tax liability for 2014, 2015, and 2016, plus accrued penalties and interest. Ms. Sanborn's asset distribution chart suggests that the CMJ investment account balance is $64,098. However, Mr. Bart testified that he used the CMJ investment account to pay his legal fees during this divorce. Ms. Sanborn objected that the CMJ accounts were a marital asset, and Mr. Bart countered that Ms. Sanborn had used savings accounts to pay her legal fees as well. Ms. Sanborn should not have to bear the cost of Mr. Bart's legal fees (see attorney's fees discussion below).

Therefore, Mr. Bart's legal fees will be treated as an advance on his share of the property distribution. See In the Matter of Hampers and Hampers, 154 N.H. 275, 291 (2006). The property distribution therefore should take into account Ms. Sanborn's $65,000 debt incurred for legal fees as a commensurate distribution. One approach would be, as Ms. Sanborn suggests, considering CMJ to have money in its coffers that is no longer there. The court prefers the approach that recognizes the money has been spent, but gives Ms. Sanborn the same benefit of having those litigation expenses paid from marital assets. With this adjustment included, the value of the marital portion of CMJ is 95% of the $650,000 value of the real estate minus the $147,448 in commercial loans that both parties recognized<sup>4</sup> (so .95 x [650,000 – 147,448], or $477,424), plus 95% of $3,060 (which comes out to $2,907), plus 95% of 1,116 (or $1,060), for a total of $481,391 (with each of those numbers rounded to the nearest dollar as necessary). In short, the value of the marital portion of CMJ is $481,391. See Appendix A

Miscellaneous

Additional Property Settlement

As noted above, the marital estate is being divided slightly unevenly – 55% to Father, recognizing the inherited nature of the assets that created his livelihood and supported the marital lifestyle, and 45% to Mother. To buy out Mother's interest in the marital estate and get to the 45-55 division that is equitable in this case, Father is to pay to Mother the sum of $215,794.90 within 120 days of the court's Order. See Appendix A.

Attorney's Fees

Mother believes that she is entitled to attorney's fees due to Father's unwillingness to cooperate with discovery.

The general rule in New Hampshire is that each party to litigation must pay her own attorney's fees. In the Matter of Mallett & Mallett, 163 N.H. 202, 211 (2012). Exceptions to this rule include a specific statutory authorization for awarding attorney's fees, an agreement between the parties, or a judicially-created exception to the general rule. Id.; see also Hampers, 154 N.H. at 289. One such judicially-created exception is set forth in Harkeem v. Adams, 117 N.H. 687, 690–91 (1977). "Under the Harkeem exception, an award of attorney's fees to one party is permissible where the other party has facted in bad faith, vexatiously, wantonly, or for oppressive reasons, where the litigant's conduct can be characterized as unreasonably obdurate or obstinate, and where it should have been unnecessary for the successful party to have brought the action." Mallett, 163 N.H. at 211-12 (quoting Harkeem, 117 N.H. at 691).

Mother has not demonstrated that Father's conduct with regard to discovery was conducted in bad faith, such that she is entitled to an award of attorney's fees. Mother's litigation process was very costly throughout, through choices that had little to do with Father's compliance with discovery or not. And, as noted, Father's income has been very difficult to determine. Father and his counsel provided Mother and her counsel with the documentation of Father's bank accounts, and with the revised tax returns. But neither party has pinpointed a document or series of documents that would have allowed Mother to determine Father's income, let alone a document that Father refused to provide in discovery. Father's 7/29/19 Motion to Compel and to Dismiss (court document #88) was denied from the bench because the basis for that motion was Mother's omission of a figure for child support or alimony in her proposed decree shared with Father's counsel. The Court agrees with Mother that Father's income was not determinable. Therefore, omission of alimony and child support numbers on her proposed decree was not in bad faith or intended to surprise. But just as Father has not demonstrated a basis for dismissal of Mother's petition for alimony, Mother has not demonstrated a basis for an award of attorney's fees. Neither party knew what Father's income was. It seems that both parties deduced it over the course of Father's testimony. Mother has not produced evidence from which the Court finds bad faith or vexatious delay.

And Mother does not appear to argue for an award of attorney's fees under the judicially-recognized "exception permitting an award of attorney's fees in divorce cases." Mallett, 163 N.H. at 212; see, e.g., DePalantino v. DePalantino, 139 N.H. 522, 526 (1995); Indorf v. Indorf, 132 N.H. 45, 47 (1989); Salito v. Salito, 107 N.H. 77, 77-78 (1966). "In awarding attorney's fees pursuant to this exception, trial courts must use 'reasonable restraint' and the award must be based upon a finding of 'need on the part of one party and ability to pay on the part of the other." Mallett, 163 N.H. at 212 (quoting Indorf, 132 N.H. at 47). "The divorce exception was established to protect both parties' rights to access to the courts and defend against a petition for divorce." Mallett, 163 N.H. at 213. "[T]he theoretical basis for awarding attorney's fees in divorce cases is the potential ability of the court to offset the attorney's fees against the ultimate property distribution." Id.; cf. Morrison v. Holt, 42

15 In the Matter of: Lura Sanborn, Petilioner, and Jeffrey Barl, Respondent Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409 N.H. 478, 479 (1861) ("If the wife ... prevails, her expenses are usually considered in awarding her alimony." (quotation omitted)); C.S. Garvey, Massachusetts Continuing Legal Education: A Practical Guide to Divorce in New Hampshire, § 5.5.6 (2009) ("More often than not, any advance granted by the trial court will act against your client's property division.").

In this case, as in Hampers, the attorney's fees issue has been addressed in the context of the property division. The money Father spent from the CMJ investment accounts – marital property used for Father's litigation expenses – has been offset against Mother's litigation debt to her counsel. Mother has not pleaded her need and Father's ability to pay, nor has she demonstrated the fees' reasonableness under the procedure outlined in Gosselin v. Gosselin, 136 N.H. 350 (1992). In the absence of these factors, an award of attorney's fees under the divorce exception is not supported.

The Court finds no applicable agreement or exception to the American Rule and declines to award attorney's fees.

· Finances/ Tax Liability

Father shall indemnify and hold Mother harmless for any tax liability that may result of Father's underreporting. Until such time as GSCS shares are transferred formally, any tax consequence shall be paid by Father.

Mother's request for her "draw" from GSCS – the amount that was reported on her K-1 – is denied. The K-1 indicates "pass through" income; it may be attributed to her as income for tax purposes without being income that she can actually access. Cf. In the Matter of Hampers & Hampers, 166 N.H. 422, 438-39 (2014) (analogizing self-employment to joint ownership of partnership, which, like LLC or S-corporation, is subject to "pass through" taxation). The distributions that were attributed to her in 2014, 2015, and 2016, while the parties were living together, have been subsumed into the expenses of the marital estate (to the extent they were not provided to Mother in the form of the cash distributions in December that the parties both testified Father provided in those three years). As for the $4,524 "draw" listed on the 2017 K-1, neither party addressed whether this was actual income or solely pass-through income for tax purposes. Because it is unclear whether this was concrete income that should have been distributed, the Court will not order it distributed; however, Mother should not have to pay any tax on that money. To the extent any tax liability is assessed to Mother as a result of that listed draw, Father shall indemnify her with the taxing entity.

Contempt

Mother argues that Father has violated the Temporary Parenting Plan by not discussing major decisions affecting Walden; not sharing responsibility for all major decisions regarding Walden, including educational, extracurricular and athletic activities; and scheduling activities without first consulting the other parent.

To prevail on her Motion for Contempt, Mother must have established that Father willfully, intentionally and deliberately failed to comply with a Court Order.

In the Matter of:
Lura Sanborn, Petitioner, and Jeffrey Bart, Respondent
Case No. 629-2017-DM-00409

The Court finds that Father disagreed with summer school and made efforts to meet with Mother to talk over his concerns. By Mother's own admission she did not sit down with Father to discuss Walden's schedule because she found Father to be dishonest. The Court finds that Father raised the idea of tutoring with Mother before engaging the tutor. Further, the Court accepts Father's testimony that he returned paperwork to the school declining ESY believing that Mother would also submit paperwork with her opinion.

Additionally, the Court finds that Father's email to Mother in which he raised the issue of Mountain Bike Camp was not a violation of the mediated agreement.

Having made these rulings, the Court cannot find that Father willfully, intentionally and deliberately failed to comply with a Court Order and, therefore, does not find Father in contempt.

So Ordered.

NHJB-3058-F (01/01/2019)

The parties agreed that the law in effect at the time the lawsuit was filed would govern alimony, rather than the 2018 amendments to that law (effective for cases filed after 1/1/19). The Court finds that Mother lacks sufficient income, property, or both, to provide for her own reasonable needs, taking into account the marital lifestyle. See RSA 458:19, I(a). The Court does not find that Mother is underemployed. RSA 458:19, I(c). Additionally, the Court finds that Father is able to meet his own reasonable needs, taking into account the marital lifestyle and the extent to which the parties must both fairly adjust their standards of living based on the creation and maintenance of separate households. See RSA 458:19, I(b).

Pursuant to RSA 458:19, IV(b) (2018), In determining the amount of alimony, the court shall consider the length of the marriage; the age, health, social or economic status, occupation, amount and sources of income, the property awarded under RSA 458:16-a, vocational skills, employability, estate, liabilities, and needs of each of the parties; the opportunity of each for future acquisition of capital assets and Income . . . . (Emphases added.)

Again, the Court notes the challenges with establishing Father's income. As the primary owner of both GSCS and CMJ, Father has a much greater opportunity for future acquisition of capital assets and income than does Mother, a salaried employee. And because he is awarded a slightly larger share of the marital estate (see property distribution, below), "the property awarded under RSA 458:16-a" factor favors Mother's receipt of alimony to help meet her reasonable needs.

The Court recognizes that both parties are frugal in their spending and finds that the expenses listed in their Financial Affidavits to be modest.

After considering all of the above, the Court awards alimony

THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE UNIFORM SUPPORT ORDER — STANDING ORDER

NOTICE: This Standing Order (SO) is a part of all Uniform Support Orders (USO) and shall be given full effect as an order of the Court. Variations to paragraphs of the SO in a specific case must be entered in paragraph 21 of the USO and approved by the Court.

(Paragraph numbers in the SO correspond to related paragraph numbers in the USO. Variations entered in paragraph 21 should reference the related paragraph number.)

SUPPORT PAYMENT TERMS

- SO-3A. All prior orders not inconsistent with this order remain in full force and effect.
- SO-3B. In cases where the order of another jurisdiction is registered for modification, a tribunal of this state may not modify any aspect of a child support order that may not be modified under the law of the issuing jurisdiction. (See RSA 546-B:49,III.)
- SO-3C. This order shall be subject to review and Court modification three years from its effective date upon the request of a party. Any party may petition the Court at any time for a modification of this support order if there is a substantial change in circumstances. The effective date of any modification shall be no earlier than the date of notice to the other party. "Notice" means either of the following: 1) service as specified in civil actions or 2) the respondent's acceptance of a copy of the petition, as long as the petition is filled no later than 30 days following the respondent's acceptance. See RSA 458-C:7.
- SO-3D. No modification of a support order shall after any arrearages due prior to the date of filing the pleading for modification. RSA 461-A:14, VIII.
- SO-4A. The amount of a child support obligation shall remain as stated in the order until the dependent child for whom support is ordered completes his or her high school education or reaches the age of 18 years, whichever is later, or marries, or becomes a member of the armed services, at which time the child support obligation, including all educational support obligations, terminates without further legal action, except where duration of the support obligation has been previously determined by another jurisdiction, or is governed by the law of another jurisdiction, and may not be modified in accordance with statutory language referenced in SO-3B. If the parties have a child with disabilities, the court may initiate or continue the child support obligation after the child reaches the age of 18. No child support order for a child with disabilities which becomes effective after July 9, 2013 may continue after the child reaches age 21. (See RSA 461-A:14, IV)
- SO-4B. In multiple child orders, the amount of child support may be recalculated according to the guidelines whenever there is a change in the number of children for whom support is ordered, upon petition of any party. In single child orders, the support obligation terminates automatically, without the need for further court action, upon the emancipation of the child. The obligor remains obligated for any and all arrearages of the support obligation that
- SO-4C. If the order establishes a support obligation for more than one child, and if the court can determine that within the next 3 years support will terminate for one of the children, the amount of the new child support obligation for the remaining children may be stated in the order and shall take effect on the date or event specified without further legal action.
- SO-4D. In cases payable through the New Hampshire Bureau of Child Support Services (BCSS), if there are arrearages when support for a child is terminated, payments on the arrearages shall increase by the amount of any reduction of child support until the arrearages are baid in full.
- SO-4E. Pursuant to RSA 161-C:22, III when an assignment of support rights has terminated and obligor and the recipient of public assistance reunite, obligor may request a suspension of the collection of support arrearage owed to the state under RSA 161-C:4. So long as the family remains reunited and provided that the adjusted gross income of the family as defined by RSA 458-C is equal to or less than 185% of the Federal poverty guidelines as set by the United States Department of Health and Human Services, BCSS shall not take any action to collect the support arrearage owed to the State.
- SO-4F. If the collection of a support arrearage pursuant to RSA 161-C:4 is suspended, the obligor shall provide BCSS with a financial affidavit every six months evidencing the income of the reunited family and shall notify his or her child support worker in writing within ten days of any change in income or if the family is no longer reunited. Failure to report changes in income or in the status of the family as reunited or to provide a financial affidavit shall cause the suspension of collection to terminate.

UNIFORM SUPPORT ORDER

- SO-4G. Each party shall inform the Court in writing of any change in address, within 15 days of the change, so long as this order is in effect. Service of notice of any proceeding related to this order shall be sufficient if made on a party at the last address on file with the Court. A party who falls to keep the Court informed of such a change in address, and who then falls to attend a hearing because of the lack of notice, may be subject to arrest.
- SO-5A. If no date appears in paragraph 5 of the USO, the first support payment shall be due on the date this order is signed by the Judge.
- SO-5B If support is payable through BCSS, a BCSS application for child support services must be submitted before BCSS can provide services in accordance with the order.
- SO-5C. If support is payable through BCSS, BCSS is authorized and directed to coilect all sums, including any arrearages, from the obligor and forward the sums collected to the obligee or person, department, or agency providing support to the children named in the USO. Any payment shall be applied first as payment towards the current child and medical support obligation due that month and second towards any arrearages.
- SO-5D. If support is ordered payable directly to the obligee, it can only be made payable through BCSS at a later time if (1) the children named in the USO receive assistance pursuant to RSA 161 or RSA 167; (2) a party applies for support enforcement services and certifies to BCSS that (a) an arrearage has accumulated to an amount equal to the support obligation for one month, or (b) a court has issued a protective order pursuant to RSA 173-B or RSA 461-A:10 which remains in full force and effect at the time of application; or (3) a court orders payment through BCSS upon motion of any party that it is in the best interest of the child, obligee, or obligor to do so.
- SO-5E. Collection by BCSS on any arrearage may include intercepting the obligor's federal tax refund, placing liens on the obligor's personal and real property including qualifying financial accounts. Federal tax refund intercept and lien remedies shall be used to collect arrearages even if an obligor is complying with the child support orders. Pursuant to 45 CFR 303.72 (h) any federal tax refund intercept shall be applied first as payment towards the past due support assigned to the State.
- SO-5F. In all cases where child support is payable through BCSS, obligor and obligee shall inform BCSS in writing of any change of address or change of name and address of employer, within 15 days of the change.
- SO-5G. In all cases where child support is payable through BCSS, obligor and obligee shall furnish their social security numbers to the New Hampshire Department of Health and Human Services (Department).
- SO-6. Where the court determines that, in light of the best interests of the child, special circumstances exist that result in adjustments in the application of the guidelines for the child support obligation or the reasonable medical support obligation, the court shall make written findings relative to the applicability of one or more of the special circumstances described in RSA 458-C:5, I.

INCOME ASSIGNMENT

- SO-7A. Until such time as an income assignment goes into effect, payments shall be made as follows: (1) if the case is not payable through BCSS, directly to obligee, or (2) if support is payable through the BCSS by use of payment coupons available at the local BCSS office. An income assignment will not go into effect for self-employed obligors as long as they do not receive income as defined in RSA 458-B:1, paragraph IX. Future income will be subject to assignment if the case is payable through BCSS.
- SO-7B. If a parent is ordered to provide health coverage for Medicaid-eligible child(ren), he or she must use payments received for health care services to reimburse the appropriate party, otherwise his or her income may be subject to income assignment by BCSS. RSA 161-H:2(V).
- SO-7C. Increased income assignment for the purposes of payment on arrearages shall continue until such time as the arrearages are paid in full.
- SO-8. Whenever an income assignment is suspended, it may be instituted if a Court finds obligor in violation or contempt of this order OR after notice and the opportunity to be heard (RSA 458-B:5 & 7), when the Department begins paying public assistance for the benefit of a child OR when an arrearage amounting to the support due for a one-month period has accrued.

UNIFORM SUPPORT ORDER

REPORT CHANGES OF EMPLOYMENT

SO-9A. If support is payable through BCSS, obligor shall report in writing weekly, or as otherwise ordered by Court, to BCSS, and shall provide details of efforts made to find a job. Efforts to obtain employment shall include registering with New Hampshire Employment Security within two weeks of the date of this order. The obligor shall immediately report employment to BCSS in writing.

SO-9B. Immediately upon employment the obligor shall report to the obliges, in writing, details of employment, including name and address of employer, the starting date, number of weekly hours and the rate of pay.

MEDICAL SUPPORT PROVISIONS

- SO-10-16B (1). In all cases where support is payable through BCSS, or where the Department is providing medical assistance for the child(ren) under RSA 167, the court shall include the medical support obligation in any child support order issued. RSA 461-A:14, IX(d).
- SO-10-16B (2). The court shall establish and order a reasonable medical support obligation for each parent. The presumptive amount of a reasonable medical support obligation shall be 4 percent of the individual parent's gross income, unless the court establishes and orders a different amount based on a written finding or a specific finding, made by the presiding officer on the record, that the presumptive amount would be unjust or inappropriate, using the criteria set forth in RSA 458-C:5.
- SO-10-16B (3). The court shall determine whether health insurance is available to either parent at a cost that is at or below the reasonable medical support obligation amount, as established and ordered pursuant to RSA 458-C:3, V, or is available by combining the reasonable medical support obligations of both parents, and, if so available, the court shall order the parent, or parents, to provide such insurance for the child.
- SO-10-16B (4). The cost of providing health insurance is the cost of adding the child to existing coverage, or the difference between individual and family coverage.
- SO-12, 15. Accessible health insurance means the primary care services are located within 50 miles or one hour from the child(ren)'s primary residence. RSA 461-A:14, IX(b).
- SO-16A-16BA party providing or ordered to provide health insurance for the child(ren) shall give the other party sufficient information and documentation to make sure insurance coverage is effective. If support is payable through BCSS, or if there has been an assignment of medical support rights to BCSS, the information and documentation shall be provided to BCSS. In addition, obligor shall inform BCSS in writing when health insurance is available, obtained or discontinued.

- On February 13, 2020, Mr. Bart filed a Notice of Appeal in response to which 2. Ms. Sanborn filed a Cross-Appeal.
  - Under Family Division Rule 2.29B, the Temporary Decree remains in effect. 3.
- The Temporary Decree requires Mr. Bart to pay one half the property taxes on 4. the former marital home. The Final Decree awards the former marital home to Ms. Sanborn and by implication, Mr. Bart is no longer required to pay one half of the property taxes.
- The Final Decree anticipates that Ms. Sanborn would refinance or sell the former 5. marital home. At the final hearing, Mr. Bart argued that Ms. Sanborn could dramatically reduce her monthly expenses by refinancing to a 30 year mortgage thus supporting this action by the Petitioner.
- On March 26, 2020, Ms. Sanborn, acting on Mr. Bart's own suggestion and with б. the conditional assent of Mr. Bart's counsel, filed with this court a Motion for Permission to Sell or Refinance the Martial Home.
  - On April 14, 2020 the court denied Petitioner's Motion for Permission to Sell or 7.

Refinance the Marital Home on jurisdictional grounds due to the appeal of the Respondent to the Supreme Court  $^{1}$

- 8. Ms. Sanborn is therefore in the difficult position of not being able to sell or refinence her home, while ostensibly being saddled with the entire burden of the property tax provisions under the terms of the Final Orders.
- 9. The Court cannot reasonably stay the Final Order with respect to the sale and refinancing of the home while permitting it to go into effect as to the burden of property tax payments and the reduction of her alimony payment to $1,000.
- 10. Ms. Sanborn therefore requests that the Court confirm that the temporary order's allocation of tax responsibility on a shared 50%-50% basis shall continue during the pendency of Mr. Bart's appeal (and Ms. Sanborn's cross appeal) in this matter.
- 11. It is assumed that Mr. Bart and counsel will object to this Motion, as Mr. Bart has not voluntarily agreed to share the property taxes for the marital home.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner respectfully requests that this Court:

- A. Grant the within Motion;
- B. Order Mr. Bart to pay one half of the property taxes on the marital home during the pendency of the parties' supreme court appeal; and
- C. Grant such further relief as may be just and equitable.

Respectfully submitted,

LURA SANBORN
By her Attorneys,

ORR & RENO, P.A.

&lt;sup>1</sup> Ms. Sanborn was prepared to live with the Court's final orders despite her belief that it contained errors because her financial situation was difficult and she needed to move ahead. She has cross-appealed only because Mr. Bart first appealed the Court's final orders and there would be a significant delay in their implementation regardless of whether she appealed or not.
